

Get on Board for More Housing Choice Around Flatbush Avenue Station

Equitable transit-oriented communities are mixed-use neighborhoods with an array of housing options (including affordable homes), near train stations or CTfastrak stations.

Inherently Affordable • Environmentally Sustainable • Capitalize on Existing Assets

Who Benefits from Equitable Transit-Oriented Communities?

WORKERS & EMPLOYERS:

- Reduce commute times and transportation costs by using transit instead of cars
- Have more reliable schedules
- Get more customers through foot traffic from new residents

HOME-SEEKERS:

- Have more choices of where to live
- Can live closer to work, shops, and restaurants
- Walk and exercise more, improving overall health

TOWNS AS A WHOLE:

- Expand the grand list and increase tax revenues
- Keep essential workers close by
- Reduce per-unit infrastructure expenses because units are near existing infrastructure

The Current Zoning Around Flatbush Avenue Station Cheats West Hartford!

Where 4+ Family Housing Is Allowed (in purple)

Where Single-Family Housing is Allowed (in purple)

West Hartford's current zoning makes it difficult for residents to enjoy the benefits of housing near transit.

West Hartford permits predominantly single-family housing around Flatbush Ave. Station – robbing the town of tax revenue, climate benefits, and smart housing options.

An onerous permitting process also deters new housing. In 2020, Massachusetts legalized housing around transit statewide. Shouldn't West Hartford and Connecticut catch up?
