

Get on Board for More Housing Choice Around Windsor Locks Station

Equitable transit-oriented communities are mixed-use neighborhoods with an array of housing options (including affordable homes), near train stations or CTfastrak stations.

Inherently Affordable • Environmentally Sustainable • Capitalize on Existing Assets

Who Benefits from Equitable Transit-Oriented Communities?

WORKERS & EMPLOYERS:

- Reduce commute times and transportation costs by using transit instead of cars
- Have more reliable schedules
- Get more customers through foot traffic from new residents

HOME-SEEKERS:

- Have more choices of where to live
- Can live closer to work, shops, and restaurants
- Walk and exercise more, improving overall health

TOWNS AS A WHOLE:

- Expand the grand list and increase tax revenues
- Keep essential workers close by
- Reduce per-unit infrastructure expenses because units are near existing infrastructure

The Current Zoning Around Windsor Locks Station Cheats Windsor Locks!

Where 4+ Family Housing Is Allowed (in purple)

Where Single-Family Housing is Allowed (in purple)

Windsor Locks' current zoning cheats everyone out of the benefits of housing near transit.

For example, the zoning code:

- Allows very little 4+ family housing to be built around Windsor Locks Station
- Permits way too much single-family housing

An onerous permitting process also deters new housing. In 2020, Massachusetts legalized housing around transit statewide. Shouldn't Windsor Locks and Connecticut catch up?
